About the job

Job summary

Across government, digital services are transforming how organisations deliver for citizens. At Ofgem, we're using technology to help drive the transition to a Net Zero energy system, protect consumers, and support one of the most significant societal and economic challenges of our time.

We're looking for a Senior Salesforce Architect to play a key role in shaping and assuring the Salesforce architecture that underpins our digital services.

This is an exciting opportunity to join Ofgem's Digital, Data and Security Services (DDSS) directorate and help design secure, scalable and user-centred solutions that support critical regulatory and operational services. You'll work across a complex technology landscape spanning Salesforce Service Cloud, Experience Cloud, Public Sector Solutions and the wider Salesforce Platform, ensuring solutions align to both business needs and strategic architectural principles.

As a senior member of our architecture community, you'll provide technical leadership, guide delivery teams, influence architectural decisions, and help define the standards and patterns that enable successful delivery across multiple programmes.

Job description

What you'll do

As a Senior Salesforce Architect, you will:

- Lead the design and documentation of Salesforce solutions across multiple programmes and delivery teams.

- Provide technical assurance to ensure solutions meet architectural, security and operational standards.

- Design scalable and secure integrations between Salesforce and enterprise platforms using modern integration patterns and APIs.

- Work closely with Product Owners, Delivery Managers, Developers and Technical Leads to guide technical decision-making and resolve complex design challenges.

- Identify technical risks, dependencies and opportunities, ensuring informed decision-making across projects.

- Support the development and maturity of Ofgem's Salesforce Centre of Excellence, promoting best practice, reusable design patterns and architectural consistency.

- Mentor and support engineers and architects, helping to build capability across the organisation.

- Contribute to architecture governance, standards development and continuous improvement initiatives.

About you

We're looking for an experienced Salesforce Technical Architect with a strong track record of designing and assuring complex Salesforce solutions within large-scale enterprise environments.

Qualifications

You must hold, or be willing to obtain within six months of appointment:

A formal architecture qualification such as BCS Enterprise Architecture Certification or an equivalent qualification.

Why Ofgem?

At Ofgem, you'll be part of an organisation with a clear purpose: helping to deliver a greener, fairer energy system for consumers across Great Britain.

You'll work with talented colleagues across digital, data, security and business teams, helping to build modern services that have real impact. We are committed to creating an inclusive environment where everyone can thrive, contribute and develop their career.

Whatever your role, you'll help shape the future of energy regulation and support the UK's journey to Net Zero.

Security Clearance: Successful candidates must be eligible to obtain and maintain Security Check (SC) clearance.

Person specification

Essential Criteria

Demonstrable experience designing and leading Salesforce solutions across multiple clouds and domains. (Lead Criteria)

Demonstrable understanding of core Salesforce Platform, Service cloud, community cloud and Public Sector Solutions. (Lead Criteria)

Demonstrable understanding of integration patterns, APIs, and middleware for connecting Salesforce to enterprise systems.

Proficiency in architectural modelling tools such as Archi and frameworks, such as ArchiMate, UML, or equivalent, with the ability to create and maintain architectural artefacts.

Experience of applying secure design principles and data governance within Salesforce implementations.

Holds or can obtain the following certifications or equivalent within 6 months:

Formal Architectural Qualification such as BCS EA Certification or equivalent.

Desirable Criteria

Understanding government digital standards and architectural assurance processes.
